Army Recruiting Command increases Reserve enlistment bonuses

FORT KNOX, Ky. – The U.S. Army Recruiting Command today announced increases to Army Reserve enlistment incentives.

Enlistment bonuses for individuals who have no prior military service are at their highest levels in Army Reserve history. The maximum bonus for non-prior service recruits has increased to $10,000, depending on the Reserve unit vacancy and how quickly the individual can report to training. The previous maximum amount was $8,000.

Bonuses for applicants who have previous military service have also increased. Individuals with prior service who qualify and enlist for six years are eligible for a bonus of $15,000; those who enlist for three years are eligible for a $7,500 bonus. Previously, the maximums were $8,000 for a six-year enlistment and $4,000 for a three-year term.

The Army Reserve plays an integral and valuable part in America's military defense because of the experience, competence and readiness of its Soldiers. Army Reserve Soldiers combine civilian skills with military training to provide specialized support for military missions around the world. Service in the Army Reserve offers individuals the chance to make a difference in their communities and throughout the world, and to gain valuable, rewarding experiences like no other job can provide.
